Record May Snow Disrupts Power

KINGSTON — The heaviest May snow in recorded Kingston history fell this morning, cutting off power to thousands of area homes and businesses and surprising almost everyone after a balmy weekend.

Ulster Countians, lulled by a warm April in which two new high temperature records were broken and another equaled, got a rude awakening at daybreak.

Two inches of snow broke tree limbs, disrupted power lines, snarled traffic and delayed or canceled school openings throughout the Hudson Valley.

There were unofficial reports of as much as a foot of snow in some sections of the Catskills. The National Weather Service logged an official 11 inches at Slide Mountain.

Although unusual, May snowstorms in New York State are not without precedent. Last year more than an inch of snow fell on May 19 in scattered areas of the state.

This morning's snowfall was the heaviest May accumulation ever in Kingston but not the latest. It snowed an inch on May 10, 1945, for the record in that department.

The overnight low of 30 degrees, recorded at 4:15 a.m., did set a record. The previous low was 31, set in 1974.

Assistant City Engineer Norwood Locke reported the snowfall, recorded at two inches at 8 a.m., was still coming.

The sudden blow came just three days after the city set a record high of 90 degrees Friday, breaking a record of 88 degrees set in 1939.

Highway crews in rural areas were forced to put snow plows and sanders back on highway equipment.

The storm apparently broke in western New York and gathered force as it came eastward. In Ontario County the Sheriff's Department reported at 7:30 a.m. "We're having a real blizzard now," with two to three inches on the ground already. Buffalo, clobbered during the winter by the heaviest snow on record, is apparently sitting this one out, although some accumulations were reported in outlying areas and southward to Jamestown.

Power failures plagued Dutchess, Columbia and Ulster counties. Power was off in Poughkeepsie and several outlying areas of Dutchess County, and 11,000 families were without service in Columbia County, including the City of Hudson.

Locally, power lines were down in scattered areas throughout the county, with damage from falling tree limbs especially high in Kingston's uptown area.

Warren Smith, cooperative extension agent at the Hudson Valley Fruit Laboratory in Highland, reported the storm was "nothing more than a nuisance in terms of cold weather damage" to fruit crops in southern Ulster County. The warm weather over the weekend helped

State Says It Overpaid

College Loses $144,736

By SID LEAVITT
Freeman staff

STONE RIDGE — Ulster County Community College will lose $144,736 in state aid because of a four-year state audit "adjustment," and the funds will come out of the school's next aid payment from the state.

According to Robert T. Brown, college president, funds to make up for the lost state aid already have been put aside because "we knew this was coming a long time ago" when State Comptroller Arthur Levitt's audit was first compiled.

The audit, covering 4½ fiscal years ending March 31, 1976, found UCCC's financial condition and practices "generally adequate."

However, the $144,736 — about 3.5 per cent of the college's annual $4.1 million operating budget — was deducted because state auditors didn't agree with student enrollments reported by the college over the audit period and because certain entitlement conditions weren't met for one of the years, the report said.

The auditors also recommended:

• The college should separate duties involving receipt and accounting for cash to provide better control over cash.

• Responsibility for registration of continuing education students and for collection of related tuitions should be transferred from the continuing education office to the registrar and business offices to provide centralized control.

• Student tuition and fees collected by the business office should be independently reconciled with student enrollments compiled by the registrar's office to assure that these revenues are all billed and accounted for on the college records.

• Responsibilities for payroll preparation and paycheck distribution should be separated.

• Procedures should be initiated for detecting unused or underused equipment that might be used by other departments.

The audit also covered the bookstore and cafeteria run by the Ulster County College Association, which was found to have "generally adequate" procedures, except that controls over student activities receipts should be improved, the report said.

The audit concluded that UCCC had been overpaid $144,736 in four fiscal years ending in August 1975, mostly because of discrepancies the college used in the complex state

Water Dept. Reforms Procedure

By ROB BORSELLINO
Freeman staff

KINGSTON — The head of the Kingston Water Department says new procedures being used in that city agency will help avoid a recurrence of the fund shortage that was discovered earlier this year, "but they offer no guarantees."

"We're still dealing with the human element," explained Administrative Assistant Edwin Radel, "and where human beings are involved these things (shortages) happen."

The shortage was discovered in February when two city residents produced receipts for about $60 in water bills that the department claimed were unpaid. A subsequent investigation, conducted by attorney George Beck, revealed that over $600 was missing.

"Now we're sending out late notices within 15 days and customers will know much sooner if something is wrong," said Radel. "We've also instituted new cash handling procedures at the drive-in window and that'll make it easier to determine who has had access to what money."

Ulster County District Attorney Francis Vogt, whose office was called into the case in mid-March, says his investigation "amounted primarily to discussing the situation with Beck."

"It was determined that four employes had access to the money and there was no way of pinpointing who was responsible," said Vogt. "During Beck's investigation one employe resigned, but no inference can be drawn from that resignation."

Vogt said the situation in the Water Department was "similar to what we found in the city treasurer's office several years ago." In 1973 the District Attorney's office investigated a fund shortage in that department, but determining legal guilt was impossible because the bookkeeping procedures being used gave several employes access to the money.

Although the shortage was discovered in February, the public was not notified until last week, when the Water Department heard that a local reporter had learned of the incident. Radel offered little explanation for the city's failure to inform the public, other than to say " we were tied up. We've got 7,000 accounts and we had to go back and check several quarters."

Meanwhile, Alderman Donald Quick, D-Ward 6, says he would still

MARKETBASKET

Area Food Prices Show 1.8% Drop

KINGSTON — Despite recent increases in national wholesale price indicators, the cost of feeding a Kingston family of four took an unexpected turn for the better last week, dropping 1.8 per cent.

According to the Consumer Information Service of the Ulster County district attorney's office, a 41-item market basket was priced at $67.60 for the week ending May 6. The same foods were priced at $68.85 for the previous week.

Decreases in meats, fish, fresh fruits and vegetables — areas which recently have been on the rise — were major factors in the overall market basket decline, the CIS said.

Chainwide sales on sirloin steak, falling 7.4 per cent from $1.89 to $1.75 per pound, and bottom round roast, plummeting 31 per cent from $1.66 to $1.14 per pound, helped produce a 5.2 per cent drop in the meats and fish category.

Fruits and vegetables dropped 4.6 per cent overall, with carrots available at 29 cents a pound, down 25.6 per cent from the previous week's 39 cents, and sales on white baking potatoes, falling from $1.14 to 89 cents per five-pound bag.

The market basket coffee watch rebounded from a week of no increases, rising from $3.22 to $3.26 per one-pound can.

Market basket information, based on U.S. Department of Agriculture nutritional guidelines for feeding a family of four, is based on surveys of at least three chain markets in the Kingston area.

'Apple a Day' Debunked

LONDON (UPI) — The British Medical Journal says an apple a day may not be as effective as salted peanuts and cheese in keeping the dentist away.

Editorially surveying the apple's reputation as "Nature's toothbrush," the weekly publication said the fruit eaten after meals may bring about some cleansing of the teeth but salted peanuts and cheese produce a more effective flow of protective saliva.

It added:

"So, while apples must be demoted from their position of eminence as foods 'good for teeth,' other foods — among them peanuts and cheese — which are harmless to the teeth and help to combat the effects of potentially harmful foods, might be recommended both as between-meal snacks and as the last item of the diet at mealtimes."

Filthy Films Are No Show

CHENEY, Wash. (UPI) — The second annual "Filthy Film Festival" of the Theta Chi Upsilon fraternity at Washington State College was a flop — just like the first one.

Last year's event was canceled because plans called for the showing of "Deep Throat" which violated a local obscenity ruling.

Fraternity spokesman said this year's festival was called off because the county prosecutor said the school would be held liable for obscenity violations.

Gamblers Get a Break

RENO, Nev. (UPI) — Attention gamblers: the Internal Revenue Service is easing up on keno, bingo and slot machine players.

The IRS said that from now on casinos will have to report — for tax purposes — slot machine and bingo winnings of $1,200 or more. The level on keno winnings was raised to $1,500.

Temporary regulations issued in February required reporting for any winnings of $1,000 or more.

It's a Lawn Way Down

BIRMINGHAM, England (UPI) — Mrs. Vivien Flynn reached up to the clothesline in her back yard to hang out her washing and plunged into a 12-foot hole that opened under her feet.

She didn't know city workers were tunneling a new sewer that passed beneath the yard.

A neighbor rescued her and took her to a hospital where she was treated for shock.

The city workers replaced her lawn and flowerbeds, police said.

A Really Irate Consumer

GRANTS PASS, Ore. (UPI) — A supermarket robber left a message which said: "Lower your prices. How does it feel to be robbed?"

Police said Monday the robber bound and gagged a clerk before emptying a safe during the weekend. The message was written on the floor with powdered soap.

A Way to Drum Up Trade

LONDON (UPI) — The big bass drum didn't sound right when customs officers at Heathrow airport banged on it.

Inside the drum they found 83 pieces of jewelry made of elephant hair, 14 ivory teeth and 156 other ivory items.

The officers were waiting for someone to claim the drum —and answer a few questions.

Bills Top List

ALBANY (UPI) — As the lawmaking process gears up for the annual adjournment drive, the legislature goes to a four-day work week this week.

A number of important issues remain to be dealt with, including revisions of the death penalty, rent control, marijuana decriminalization, no-fault auto insurance and unemployment insurance, before adjournment, expected in a month.

Gov. Hugh Carey plans to meet with legislative leaders of both parties Tuesday week to discuss law-making priorities for the remainder of session, which began in January.

Although Carey makes a habit of breakfasting with Democratic leaders at the Executive Mansion on Tuesdays, Warren Anderson, the Republican majority leader of the Senate, has been invited to this week's session.

An Anderson spokesman said the last such session the Binghamton Republican attended was in March to discuss budgetary matters.

Agreement was reached last week between committee chairmen on a bill which would decriminalize possession of up to 1¼ ounces of marijuana, replacing current penalties with a maximum $100 fine and no jail term.

Although approval is expected in the Democrat-dominated Assembly, the battle is expected to be close in the GOPcontrolled Senate. A spokesman for the Senate majority said Sunday action on the bill was not expected this week.

Action on a measure extending rent limits affecting more than a half-million apartments, mostly in New York City, was expected this week, the spokesman said.

Agreement on the extension of the Emergency Tenants Protection Act, combined with creation of a study commission to study problems of rent control, was announced several weeks ago.

One issue which is still completely up in the air is the status of the state's Unemployment Insurance Fund, which has had to borrow money from the federal government to remain solvent.

At issue are whether the current maximum weekly jobless benefits of $95 will be raised, whether the state should raise the contributions paid by employers to restore the fund and whether "experience rating" should be renewed.

Experience rating, which will expire at the end of the year unless it is expended, places the burden of unemployment fund contributions most heavily on those business which have spotty employment records.

Anti-Nuke Morale High

SOMERSWORTH, N.H. — Most of the mid-Hudson protesters arrested at a massive Seabrook, N.H., anti-nuclear rally apparently are being held at the Somersworth National Guard armory, where morale is said to be high.

Meanwhile, one of the mid-Hudson delegation to Seabrook, Paul Atkinson of Kingston, has returned home.

A letter from Ed Czaplinski of New Paltz, driver of the bus that left the State University College campus for the April 30 — May 1 Seabrook protest, said the mid-Hudson contingent is "all standing in solidarity."

The demonstrators were protesting a "system of rule that encourages the proliferation of nuclear power and places the defense of corporate property before the civil rights of citizens," the letter said.

Czaplinski wrote area friends that he could be reached by telephone at the Somersworth armory, one of five armories still holding more than 1,400 protesters arrested at the site of a $2 billion Seabrook nuclear plant site.

However, the phone has been busy for the three days the Freeman has tried to reach it. An armory spokesman said the one phone serves hundreds of protesters being held there.

Atkinson apparently was one of the first to receive a bail offer and took it without realizing most of the others would refuse.

According to friends, he was given a chance to sign a non-cash personal recognizance release. Later, Gov. Meldrim Thomson Jr. ordered no more non-cash releases, and bail went as high as $500.

Atkinson reportedly tried to rejoin his friends but wasn't allowed to do so. He arrived home in mid-week after hitchhiking most of the way.

Joy J. MacNulty of Woodstock Nuclear Opponents, a local sympathy group, said friends back home still haven't been able to determine exactly who was in the mid-Hudson delegation of about 15 persons.

"We've dropped the ball on this one," she said.

Sympathizers held a support rally Sunday in New Paltz with a Jerry Moore concert.

According to Czaplinski's letter, the incarcerated demonstrators, still waiting for local court machinery to cope with a massive schedule of hearings, are holding classes in non-violent demonstration and nightly talent shows.

Lawyers for the anti-nuclear demonstrators have filed a class-action suit asking that conditions be improved in the armories and seeking $40 million in damages for the protesters.

They planned today to ask U.S. District Court Judge Hugh Bownes to declare the conditions unconstitutionally cruel and unusual and to order the protesters released on personal recognizance.

Reportedly, a number of New Hampshire resident demonstrators have been given non-cash releases, but not out-of-staters.

So far, 17 protesters have been tried and convicted of criminal trespass. All were sentenced to 15 days in jail and fined $100.

Deputy Attorney General Thomas Rath said trials for the remaining demonstrators will be held in three district courts this week to speed up a judicial process authorities have said could take until October.

Saugerties Firm Faced Problems

Area Ambulance Has New Owner

SAUGERTIES — Sawyer Ambulance Service, which faced severe financial problems last year, is now under new management. Wayne R. Printy, who has been involved in emergency medical services for several years, has just acquired controlling interest in the company and assumed managerial responsibilities for the firm.

There was serious concern last fall that Saugerties faced the possible loss of the home-to-hospital ambulance service. Longtime president Russell Converse advised town and village officials the company had lost some $10,000 in the past year because of increases in operating costs.

Converse said the firm's cumulative loss stood at approximately $18,000 and he requested financial help from town and village governments. Both local boards met with Converse and his accountant at the time, but the ambulance service dropped its request for assistance without comment before any official action was taken. The town board had been considering a request to budget $12,000 to aid the 24 hour service firm, and the village had been preparing to vote on $9,000 for assistance.

There was some criticism of any possible governmental support at the time from several stockholders in the ambulance firm, who felt the lax handling of its business and heavy investment in electronic equipment had led to the financial difficulties.

Printy envisions a firm financial future. He has already announced plans to add another ambulance and improve existing ambulance to hospital radio communications. He also said plans call for the opening of a sub-station in Kingston and advanced life support training for all personnel. First-aid courses will be offered to the public and working toward a closer association with the community will be emphasized.

Under the new management, the emergency service firm is also currently finalizing to coordinate medical services for two major, upcoming events in Saugerties. Sawyer Ambulance will be actively involved in the three-day Hudson Valley Volunteer Firemen's Association Convention parade and festivities in Saugerties in mid-June and the day-long Fourth of July celebration at Cantine Field.

Printy brings a varied background to his new position. He was formerly associated with National Ambulance of Rochester, Perinton Volunteer Ambulance, Doctors Ambulance of Albany, and served as chief of Five Quad Volunteer Ambulance Service of Albany. He has also studied business and accounting at State University at Albany.

He said he also welcomes any community group interested in touring the company's facilities. Printy is eager to provide speakers to area organizations interested in hearing about the status of emergency medical services. Tours and lectures can be arranged by contacting him.

Daley To Pay Own Funds

NEW YORK — Theodore G. Daley, convicted teamster boss who was fined $25,000 and placed on three years probation Friday, has been ordered to pay the fine from his own personal funds within 90 days.

U. S. District Court Judge Morris E. Lasker stipulated that Daley "not solicit or accept sums of money or things of value" to assist him in paying the fine.

Daley was convicted in March of extorting and conspiring to extort illegal gifts from Teamsters Local 445 members and contractors.

Daley was also directed to prepare a plan " for the purposes of protecting union members from pressure, influence or solicitation by officers of the local." The plan is to be accompanied by proposed changes in the local's constitution.

The 49-year-old Daley was charged with obtaining 25 to 30 truckloads of crushed stone and two loads of wooden beams from companies that employ members of his local. Daley was also found guilty of coercing teamsters into hauling materials to his summer home in Windham in Greene County in 1971.

Daley was represented by New York Attorney Gustav H. Newman who called the sentence "fair under the circumstances," but told the court he would appeal the conviction.

Judge Lasker, acknowledging that federal investigators are still probing the local's activities, said the case before him may be "just the tip of the iceberg."

FIREMEN INJURED

Two Bloomington firemen suffered smoke inhalation Sunday night as 40 firemen from four area fire companies fought a house fire at the corner of DeWitt Lake and Fly Mountain roads, Bloomington.

Firefighters Edward Stauder and Fred Harris were taken to Kingston Hospital by Doctor's Ambulance where Stauder was admitted and Harris was treated and released, according to Bloomington Fire Chief Herbert Faurote.

No one was at home at the time the fire broke out at the residence of Kathy Schiefer about 5:52 p.m. Faurote, who has ruled out arson, said the fire is believed to have started in the downstairs dining room of the two-story house. The lower floor sustained extensive damage from fire and smoke and the upstairs suffered smoke damage. Firemen were on the scene for two and one-half hours.

Bloomington Fire Company was assisted by firemen from Binnewater, Tillson and St. Remy. Rosendale firemen were on standby at the Bloomington Firehouse, Faurote said.

Investigation is continuing. The amount of damage is still undetermined.

VENDOR ROBBED

A cotton candy concessionaire at Sunday's concert at State University at New Paltz was robbed of $600 but not before she dragged one of her two young assailants to the ground.

Highland State Police report that the unnamed woman was closing her stand about 7:50 p.m. when she was grabbed from behind in the robber's attempts to pull her shoulder bag from her arm.

The young woman struggled and was thrown to the ground, taking one of the men down with her' police said.

The two men escaped, with the money, police said, describing one as about 5-foot, six and the other as 6-foot, one. Both were slim built and black.

Investigation is continuing.

MOTORCYCLE MISHAP

A Rosendale motorcyclist, Joseph Ebbers, was injured Sunday afternoon on Route 32, Town of Ulster, when his brakes failed and he lost control and landed on his side, police said.

Taken to Kingston Hospital by Doctor's Ambulance, Ebbers reportedly suffered elbow and thumb injuries.

Police report he was traveling north on Route 32 near Kingston Airport, when a vehicle in front of him slowed. He attempted to apply his brakes twice before losing control, Ebbers told police.

TWO JAILED

Two Kingston men are being held at Ulster County Jail in lieu of $5,000 bail each after their arraignment on charges stemming from a burglary early Saturday at Ace Transmission Co., 105 Cornell St., police said.

Police said Alfred E. Shaw, 19, and Joseph H. Lagasse were arrested at 12:44 a.m. near the company premises at 105 Cornell St. with large amounts of stolen property. The building had been entered through a side window.

The pair were arraigned before Special City Judge David H. Greenwald on charges of third-degree burglary and criminal possession of stolen property.

Map of Road Numbers Needed

Dear Editor:

During the past few months I have been seeing the new, good-looking Ulster County road signs displaying the Ulster County highway number.

However, I have not seen a map showing the numbers of these roads. Such would be helpful in our Marbletown Environmental Commission work, recording natural history observations, and in directing people. If this has been published in the Freeman, I have missed it. If not, it would be a public service to print it at a large scale.

Arts Budget Is Full of Air

Dear Editor:

The letter appearing in the Freeman from Helen Vukasin, Director of the Ulster County Council for the Arts, raises more questions than it answers.

Let me explain, using UCCA's own figures, filed with the State Council on March 1, 1977:

In 1975-76, UCCA received $19,000 from the State Council; in 1976-77 this was reduced to $8,200, reflecting the State Council's dissatisfaction with certain of UCCA's activities. Its total operating expenditures for 1976-77 were estimated at $19,000 on March 1, only 30 days before the completion of its fiscal year. On the same date it was projecting expenditures for 1977-78 of $66,225, for which it was requesting $30,850 from the State Council in addition to a CETA grant it had received for $5,000.

Ms. Vukasin, on being questioned, called the $66,225 a "pie-in-the-sky" proposal, which is a polite way of saying that UCCA submitted a grossly inflated budget proposal to the State Council.

The public would be screaming if federal, state or local government submitted budgets so far out of line with reality. And yet the public is also helping to support the art councils— and most people are not even aware that they are doing so.

Let us make the generous assumption that UCCA truly feels it can increase its expenditures by 100 per cent for 1977-78 versus 1976-77. This would mean an actual expenditure in 1977-78 of $38,000 rather than the $66,225 submitted on their application to the State Council. This would represent more than 60 per cent distortion, even after giving them the benefit of the doubt.

Certainly school budgets, government budgets, as initially proposed contain some padding. But UCCA's budget isn't padded; it's entirely pneumatic!

Newspapers send their reporters to cover political meetings regularly. As a consequence reporters become quite sophisticated in their political coverage and can spot a phony at fifty paces. Unfortunately, the same reporters are suprisingly naive when it comes to dealing with the art bureaucracy.

Ms. Vukasin's letter contains at least one other misleading statement that should be clarified. She suggests that "local art councils are not a new phenomenon and most counties and regions have established such councils." She neglects to mention that the upsurge in local art councils coincided with the recent change in state policy which dramatically increased the funds available to the State Council.

From the performance of most of these new groups I would say it is not "pie-in-the-sky" but "finger-in-the-pie."

Name Pool for Andy Murphy

Dear Editor:

I read with interest Alderman Raichle's suggestion that the swimming pool at Dietz Stadium be named in honor of the late Harry L. (Pop) Edson and that appropriate ceremonies be held when the pool is officially opened.

Though I don't disagree with Mr. Raichle that Pop Edson did much for recreation in the City of Kingston (a school named after him attests to that fact), I would be remiss if I didn't suggest "Murphy Pool" for the name of the Dietz Stadium swimming pool.

Andy Murphy, who retired several months ago after a long and distinguished career as Superintendent of Recreation for the City fof Kingston, worked for the city even after his "retirement" because he was needed.

For more years than I can remember, Andy Murphy has been Mr. Recreation in the city. He has never failed to give his time and energy when called upon. He has always been a "human being" in every sense of the word.

The humble man that he is, Andy Murphy wouldn't even accept a retirement dinner when he retired, preferring to "bow out gracefully." However, though he no longer serves as Superintendent of Recreation, Andy Murphy's years of service will never be forgotten.

Harry Edson had a school named after him, but he was no longer with us when the dedication took place. Andy Murphy is still within our midst, and the fact that he can see the new swimming pool from his back porch on Lucas Avenue would make the naming of it after him even more appropriate.

I hope this letter will start the Common Council into doing something. When people in this city talk about Andy Murphy, the most common saying is that "he's a beautiful man." We second that and add one more of our own-he's one hell of a guy.

Let's not wait until Andy Murphy is no longer alive to do something for this gentleman, whose personality and dedication have had an effect on most of the city's residents. Action should be taken at once. Let's get the ball rolling.

Central Hudson Defends Itself

Dear Editor:

In one of his recent letters to the editor, Francis A. Barbone inaccurately accused Central Hudson of saying that a feasibility study for the Village of Massena, which seeks to set up a municipal power operation, has cost $500,000.

Our actual statement, presented to each member of the Ulster County Legislature and to the press attending the April 21 meeting of that body, included the following:

"The original $28,000 feasibility study has mushroomed into more than one-half million dollars worth of additional studies and legal fees."

Perhaps it would help if we provided a breakdown of the expenses Massena taxpayers have incurred to date. They include the $28,000 mentioned above; $225,000 for additional engineering studies; $150,000 in legal fees, plus the interest payments on a $300,000 bond anticipation note. The note was issued about three years ago against the $4,500,000 bond issue which voters approved for the acquisition of Niagara Mohawk facilities. Niagara Mohawk has an obligation to ensure that it be fairly reimbursed for its property, and that any acquisition not permitted to take place at the expense of its other customers and its shareholders.

It is naive of Mr. Barbone or anyone else to think that a utility would not protect its own interests. Any attempt to disenfranchise a utility of an area it has served dependably for decades will not end with a $28,000 feasibility study and an offer of less than 50 cents on the dollar.

ERA Takes States' Rights

Dear Editor:

The more that I read on the Equal Rights Amendment, the more I am convinced that it is not in the interest of women nor the family.... it will allow Federal bureaucrats to enter and dictate areas of our personal lives where they have never been able to intrude before. Under ERA, our states will have to surrender to the Federal bureaucrats their law-making rights covering marriage, divorce, property settlements, and even the raising of our children.

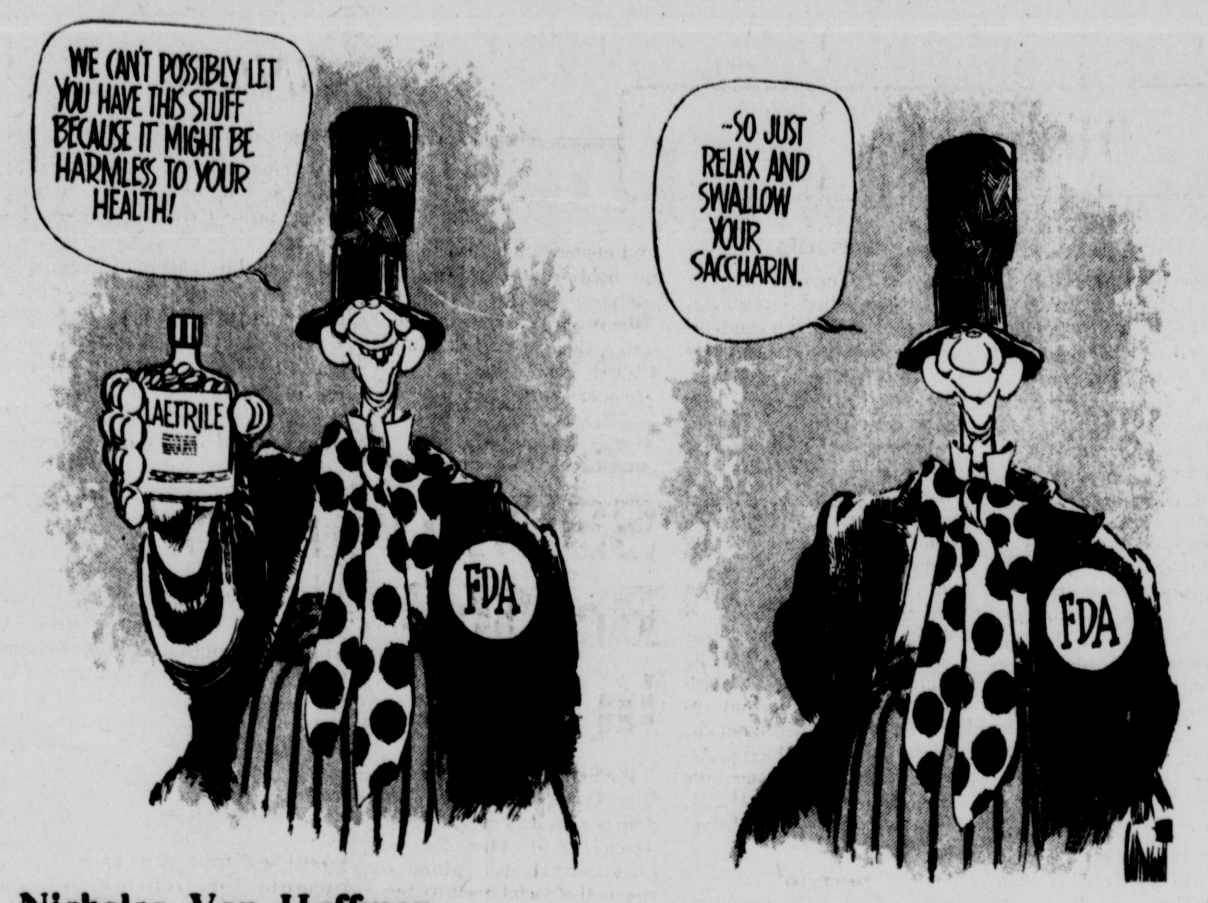

We should not forget that the United States is made-up of 50 governments or states that have agreed to unite. Don't let the Federal bureaucrats take any rights away from the states. Freedom from a central dictatorship is what's important to us all.

Oiling another Crisis

WASHINGTON - The Administration's handling of the energy crisis reminds one of what Gen. Douglas MacArthur as far back as 1957 said about the Cold War: "Our government has kept us in a perpetual state of fear - kept us in a continuous stampede of patriotic fervor - with the cry of a grave national emergency... Yet, in retrospect, these disasters seem never to have happened, seem never to have been quite real."

If this national emergency also has the patina of the not quite real, this is in large measure owing to the Administration's feeble assurances as to the role of the major oil companies. Too many people believe that the crisis is but one more trick to raise prices, and it doesn't convince anyone here to be told that in Italy and Holland they pay much more per gallon for gasoline.

A crisis declared on a data base supplied by the oil industry is about as trustworthy as the shifting sands around the oil deposits of Saudi Arabia. Indeed we hear less and less about any immediate real shortages of crude oil and more and more about the supposed political inconveniences of importing foreign oil. Coincidentally, of course, our oil industry has fought against the importation of foreign oil for decades, asserting that import bans are an acceptable government intrusion in the not-too-terribly free oil market but price controls aren't. Today most of the industry doesn't object to American consumption of foreign crude, but, given the tar-smeared history of this gooey industry, people can be forgiven for wondering if the government isn't playing the companies' game when it pushes for import reductions.

The President has murmured a few words about horizontal divestiture, but the general force of the Administration's position is an energy program which leaves the oil industry undisturbed and intact. Oil companies are to be allowed to continue to buy into coal, atomic and other forms of energy so that the same people will have the power to manipulate the prices of every form of fuel.

Already the charge has been leveled that the Gulf Oil Corp. was part of an international uranium price-rigging combine. Or, as The Wall Street Journal put it: "Gulf officials were at one time active in a uranium producer's cartel, whose secret price-fixing schemes may have contributed to the seven-fold rise in the price of fuel for nuclear power plants in the past five years." According to the same newspaper, uranium was going for less than $6 a pound in early 1972 but is now over $41. At those prices it would be cheaper to feed our atomic reactors coffee beans.

The arguments against horizontal divestiture are as weak in their economics as they are dubious as social policy. It's said for instance that the coal industry doesn't have the capital to gear up for significantly increased production while the oil industry does, ergo the oil industry should buy the coal industry. Of course, there's no guarantee that after the oil industry does buy the coal industry it will dig any coal. The coal companies' specialty is keeping resources locked in the earth in order to create scarcity and high prices above ground.

There are dozens of ways capital can be made available to the coal industry. We could even confer on coal some of the government-created advantages which have been heaped (no pun intended) on oil.

It's argued that the oil companies have a particular technological expertise that makes it both efficient and expeditious to allow them to dominate competing energy industries. They probably can help by bringing a different and better kind of operational management to the coal industry. But that's not expertise; that's replacing certain antediluvian anthropoids in coal management with men who understand their own employes aren't the enemy.

Beyond bringing 20th century labor relations to a 19th century industry, oil has no special expertise outside the oil industry. What it does have are powerful disincentives to develop price-competitive fuel sources that would lessen the value of its investment in oil.

Even within the oil industry, the larger companies, by owning everything from the oil well to the gas pump, may not be as competitive as they ought. It's tricky finding out and more so when it's recalled that, while organizationally separate, many of the companies who are supposed to be competing are cooperating in such things as joint development leases and pipelines.

Casinos Come to Atlantic City

The living room swayed. Steve Norton clutched an arm of his chair. Bill Kofoed steadied a tall drink. I pushed a half-glass of white wine away. It wasn't an earthquake.

We were aboard a sumptuous houseboat at Paradise Island in the Bahamas. It is feathered and furnished with deep-pile green rugs, a spiral staircase, a kitchen and two television sets which remain blank.

It comes to $230 a day. If you can split it three ways, it is worth a little rocking, especially in the middle of the night trying to find the bathroom.

Steve Norton was talking about Atlantic City. He is a youngish intense 40, a vice president of Resorts International. Kofoed is a top public relations executive who is also interested in Atlantic City.

More and more states are turning to controlled gambling as a source of additional revenue. New Jersey surprised the nation by voting to permit casinos at the one-time queen of beaches, Atlantic City.

Governor Brendan Byrne, who hit New Jersey with its first income tax, could run a popularity race with measles, and win. He chose to do what he thought was right rather than what was popular. Some Jersey voters hold out crooked fingers and say, "Governor Burn," not Byrne.

Norton spent the cold months studying Atlantic City, the governor and the legislature. Resorts International bought the old Chalfonte Haddon Hall as a future gambling casino. They expect to put five million more into redecorating the property.

The boardwalk hotels are a nightmare. The Traymore, at one time the class of the beach, is gone. The shops on Atlantic and Pacific Avenues gasp for life. The boardwalk has survived thousands of storms. The beach is still one of the deepest and finest anywhere. Some concessions still sell salt water taffy.

When gambling becomes legal, Norton's feasibility study states that there will be 35,000 new jobs. The old hotels will be glittering with lights and dreamy music, new plumbing and fresh linen.

The big money of Las Vegas overreacted when New Jersey voted for casinos. "Gambling?" the hotel owners said. "You're going to see a lot of welfare checks, that's what you'll see."

Untrue. There is enough gaming money to keep the Bahamas, Las Vegas and Atlantic City in a happy frame of mind. Vegas will remain the gambling capital of the world. Sheiks fly all the way from Saudi Arabia to lose a half-million or more trying to outwit a silly pair of dice.

The Bahamas does well with Florida tourists and Canadians. The Bahamas also attracts a lot of young couples. She enjoys the bells on the slot machines; he puts on a dead expression at the blackjack table.

Four airlines have asked the C.A.B. for permission to fly into Atlantic City. The city of Philadelphia has always looked upon Atlantic City as its personal summer resort. Three airports at New York will be flying shuttle service to the beach. They'll also be coming in from Boston, Cleveland, Detroit and Chicago.

The big corporations are going to require a lot of Bill Kofoes to resurrect the beach. The P.R. men will sell it as their confreres sold a chunk of desert in Nevada.

The New Jersey legislature has a half-dozen bills ready to clear the proper committees this month. The assembly and the state senate will reconcile their differences and the gaming act should be on the desk of Governor Byrne before summer vacations begin.

The state has a couple of stipulations of its own. It wants an elegant, classy operation. It also wants 10 per cent of all casino profits. In return, it will grant the hotels a 2 per cent rebate with which to improve hotels and rooms.

So far, everyone appears to be content. The governor asked that gambling be reduced from 24 hours a day to 18. The new hotel owners decided not to fight it. The operation is so smooth that everybody is scared to death.

Norton stood to leave. "Remember when you and I played the King's Inn course at Freeport?" "Not if I didn't win, I don't," I said. Kofoed grinned. "Funny," he said' "The living room has stopped rocking."

Officials Protect Drug Trade

WASHINGTON—The subterranean world of the narcotics trade is populated with shadowy tycoons who are able to operate at all levels of commerce. They consort with cutthroats and prime ministers alike.

More often than not, the top drug dealers operate behind a screen of respectable businesses. But out of the back door, they deliver heroin shipments to fog-sheathed waterfronts, distribute satchels full of cash in high places and deal in death in the back alleys of the world.

A startling secret intelligence report describes how one of the world's biggest heroin rings, for example, is protected by Thai officialdom. Thailand forms the base of the notorious Golden Triangle, which produces a heavy flow of heroin into the United States and Western Europe. Thai Premier Thanin Kravichien has solemnly vowed to wipe out his end of this dirty business.

Yet the intelligence report charges that Thailand's top narcotics trafficker is on excellent terms with Thai officials. He is identified in the secret reports as Chang Kai-cheng, a man of many tentacles, who operates hotels, trucks and shops. But his biggest business, according to the intelligence document, is drug smuggling.

The documnent also alleges that his chief lieutenant, Chang Ching-chen, "has contacts with many Thai officials and... takes care of Chang's narcotics business in Bangkok."

Chang Kai-cheng came out of China in 1949, settled in Burma for a spell and then, relates the intelligence report, "moved to Chiang Mai, Thailand, in 1965 and became a small narcotics dealer." But within five years, he clawed his way to the top and "became a prominent figure in the Thailand narcotics community."

Now he is reported to be "the head of the largest heroin distribution organization in Thailand," with "narcotics connections in Holland, Singapore, Malaysia and Hong Kong...a major violator suspected of being heavily involved..." Yet he poses as a respectable businessman and drives grandly about the streets of Bangkok in a white Mercedes.

The intelligence report listed his private telephone numbers, which we used to reach the starled Chang Kai-cheng in his Bangkok hideaway. Speaking through an interpreter, we got Chang to confirm the background information provided in the report. But he stopped cold when we brought up the subject of narcotics. He claimed not to know anything about them.

The secret report charges, however, that Chang "provides a major portion of the financial support and handles the shipment of narcotics from Bangkok to international markets." His narcotics empire extends from a heroin refinery in Burma to a morphine plant that produces the prized "999" brand. He formerly used a Laotian gold company as a front for narcotics trafficking, the report alleges.

Chang still masterminds "how the larger quantities of narcotics should be sold," according to the report, but underlings now take all the risks. U.S. and Thai agents have pinpointed the key men in his drug smuggling organization down to their license plates, phone numbers and bank accounts. Yet the government, we are told, has been unwilling to smash the ring.

The Thai embassy here insists there is no government protection of dope rings. "We are acting strongly against narcotics traffickers," a spokesman said.

Footnote: Meanwhile, Chairman Lester Wolff, D-N.Y., of the House Narcotics Committee, is zeroing in on a new "French connection." It is dominated largely by Chinese who are moving Asian opium into the traditional Frence heroin laboratories near Marseilles. From there, according to a staff study, it may soon be reaching the United States "in quantity" with the assistance of Chinese-American dope merchants.

CONSUMER CRUNCH: Sen. Wendell Ford, D.-Ky., appears to be a slow-talking country lawyer. But he becomes deadly serious when he takes on the voluble chairman of the Consumer Product Safety Commission, John Byington.

Ford has fired off a blistering private letter complaining that "I am sobered, disillusioned and deeply concerned...I am not satisfied with your performance as chairman." Byington has failed to act against numerous dangerous products, he charges, such as power motors, gas heaters, extension cords, sharp-edged toys and poisoned packages.

"The morale of the commission's employes seems to be at an all-time low...Only 43 per cent believe the agency is doing a good job," Ford observed. He found it "appalling" that the agency takes over three months to determine if a product is hazardous. Byington, who was appointed by President Ford last year, has travelled to Hong Kong, Japan, West Germany, Taiwan, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands to explain the commission's work.

"There has been an over-emphasis on globe-trotting and speech-making... and an under emphasis on meaningful initiatives," Ford declares. "It is the bottom line of injury and death reduction which is important."

SS May Be $6B in Red

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Vice President Walter Mondale was ready today to reveal details of the Carter administration's plans to rescue the Social Security System from deficits so severe some experts fear it will go bankrupt without new sources of cash.

The Social Security fund, made up of the payroll taxes from workers and their employers, is expected to run $6 billion in the red this year.

Charles Schultze, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, said Sunday the White House is likely to propose using general tax funds for the first time to bolster the Social Security fund, and hinted the administration also will propose taxing employers on all the salary paid to a worker.

Employers now pay taxes only on the same salary maximum as the workers.

Schultze, interviewed on CBS-TV's Face the Nation, said he would support using general tax funds for the Social Security fund if they were applied "under proper circumstances and carefully controlled." He said such a proposal "is likely to be" in the outline announced by Mondale.

Asked if the proposal would include higher Social Security taxes on employers, Schultze said: "Let me simply say clearly that's one of the things that the administration is considering . . . it will spread it out — if it's done — over several years . . . I think this would be, among various difficult choices, one that will spread it out and reduce the impact."

Employers and employes now pay taxes of 5.85 per cent on the first $16,500 a year of earnings.

"There is an obvious need to provide financing for Social Security and no way to do it is going to be easy," Schultze said.

•SNOW

Overhead irrigation at freezing temperatures actually helps protect the buds, Smith explained, because the freezing that occurs actually liberates heat that keeps the buds above the freezing mark.

"I'm more concerned with limb breakage and with damage to grapes in particular," Smith said. "The storm may cause us to recommend restricted thinning or to recommend eliminating thinning entierely this year."

Smith said 5.5 inches of snowfall had been measured at the laboratory this morning.

It would take "three to five days" of freezing weather to do permanent damage to fruit buds, Smith said. The fruit season this year is about two weeks ahead of a normal season schedule because of the warm weather the area has experienced during the past few weeks.

The forecast for the lower Hudson Valley calls for light snow tapering off to flurries today, with an inch or two accumulation possible on grassy areas at lower elevations and around 4 inches at higher elevations. Windy and quite cool today with a high in the 40's, considerable cloudiness, windy and cool tonight and Tuesday with a chance of a few showers and flurries tonight. Lows tonight in the 30's, high Tuesday in the upper 40's to mid-50's. The chance of precipitation 40 per cent today, 30 per cent tonight and 20 per cent Tuesday.

like to see the Water Department, which is autonomous, under the control of the Kingston Common Council.

"We're the city fathers and we don't even know what's going on down there," said Quick. "We have to wait till the newspaper comes out to find out these things. I think that's a bad idea."

Quick, who has previously tried to make the Water Department accountable to the Council, said that trying to strip the department of its autonomy would be "a useless exercise."

"I only got three votes from them (the Council) the last time I tried," said Quick, "but if the make-up of the Council changes after the election this year, I'll try again."

formula for figuring full-time equivalent students (FTE's) and the time they spent in class.

"It's a very complex formula, believe me," Brown said. "We had a difference of opinion with the state, and we lost."

A smaller part of the overpayment occurred in the 1973-74 year when the college couldn't support certain disadvantaged student conditions as it claimed, the report said.

While the overpayment occurred over four years, the state comptroller's office said all the money should be deducted from the next payment of advance state aid to the college.

The state's last aid payment to UCCC was $174,765, made in March 1976 for the 1974-75 school year.

The school's current tuition — $407 per resident full-time student, double for non-county residents — will go up $27 in the basic figure for the 1977-78 school year.

Founded in 1963, UCCC had 1,789 full-time equivalent students in the 1974-75 school year, although a number of the students are part-time.

Magazine Sticks to Death Ray Story

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An air and space publication today challenged President Carter to identify "inaccuracies" in its report that the Soviets are developing a weapon which could neutralize U.S. strategic ballistic missiles.

Aviation Week and Space Technology magazine said it stood firmly behind last week's report on a Soviet energy beam which it said could "checkmate this country's strategic doctrine."

Charging that the President was not being fully briefed on technical matters, the magazine offered to publish any corrections Carter could make.

The President, during a telephone call to the convention of American Society of Newspaper Editors held in Hawaii last week, said, "We have no evidence ...that the Soviets have achieved any major breakthrough in the kind of weapon described."

"I think that is ... a report that is based on some inaccuracies," Carter said.

Aviation Week Editor-in-Chief Robert B. Hotz today countered in an editorial titled "Dig Deeper, Jimmy!" that "it is apparent from his response that his acquaintance with the subject is extremely recent and his initial briefers were less than complete."

"President Carter's briefers did not tell him that the Aviation Week story had been offered to the appropriate Pentagon officials for review for both accuracy and security well before publication," said the editorial. "Some changes were requested by the Pentagon on security and some, but not all, were made. None was requested on accuracy."

The magazine's lengthy and technically detailed article last week said that the Soviets have leapfrogged a generation of advanced scientific technology in developing "a charged-particle beam designed to destroy U.S. intercontinental and submarine-launched ballistic missile nuclear warheads."

The Pentagon quickly discounted the claim as "a remote possibility."

Environmental Approval Needed for Water Plan

ALBANY — Proposed new state regulations on New York City water releases from Schoharie Reservoir to the Shandaken Tunnel will go before the State Environmental Board on May 17.

The regulations, proposed by the Department of Environmental Conservation, were submitted to the state legislature April 1 and must get environmental board approval before they can go into effect.

Among other things, the regulations require a minimum daily flow of 160 million gallons in the Esopus Creek at the Shandaken Tunnel portal at Allaben, except when Schoharie Reservoir is extremely low or water is spilling from Ashokan Reservoir.

The regulations are designed "to protect and enhance the Esopus Creek for such recreational uses as trout fishing and canoeing, while at the same time fully meet New York City's needs for an adequate water supply," DEC Commissioner Peter A.A. Berle said.

The Esopus fishery in the past has been "seriously damaged" by abrupt opening and closing of the tunnel, which will now be made more gradual by the new regulations, Berle said.

DEAR ABBY

$1500 Check for Nose Job Causes Furor

DEAR ABBY: My daughter (whom I shall call Ethel) is graduating from high school in June, so my rich sister sent her a check for $1,500 with a note, "To get your nose fixed, honey."

Now, Abby, Ethel's nose isn't that bad. She resembles my father, and his nose goes with his face. Some of Ethel's friends have had their noses fixed, and she's been after us ever since to get hers done. We kept saying we couldn't afford it. Now what can we say?

I am so burned up at my sister I can hardly see to write this. She had HER nose bobbed a few years ago and now she looks like Marlo Thomas, but I think her old nose had more character.

Abby, do you think my sister had the right to send our daughter a check for a nose job knowing how we fought against it? And should we let Ethel do it, even though we don't think she really needs it?
—FAMILY NOSE FIGHT

DEAR NOSE FIGHT: Your sister should have kept her bobbed nose out of your Family Fight. But consider your daughter. HER nose doesn't have to go with her grandfather's face. And if a girl's character is in her nose, heaven help her.

If Ethel thinks she needs to have her nose bobbed, she needs it. Take her to a certified plastic surgeon for a consultation. He won't chisel needlessly.

DEAR ABBY: Whatever became of the old-fashioned, red-blooded verile male who could get excited about a lovable, feminine woman?

Lately, all the men I meet are either interested in other men, or practically impotent because the Women's Libbers have made them feel they're not needed for anything!

The last few men I dated sounded like they were all playing the same recording: It started with the alimony blues and ended with, "I don't want to get serious with another woman as long as I live!"

Abby, please tell me where to find a good old-fashioned man who's all man, and I'll go there tomorrow.—STATEN ISLAND

DEAR STATEN: Staten Island is loaded with them. Stand still, and one will catch up with you. They're all looking for a lovable feminine woman they can get excited about.

DEAR ABBY: Please say a word in your column about these extravagant weddings people put on. I understand such catered affairs run from $25 per person on up.

If the bride's parents spend $25 per guest, the invitee is obligated to buy a gift of the same value.

In our case, the wedding invitation our family just received will cost us $150 to accept.

At those prices, we would have considered it a kindness not to have been invited.—C.

DEAR C.: Where is it written that a guest must match the cost of being entertained by presenting a gift of equal value? A gift is always voluntary—never obligatory.

Handicapped Students Learn How to Survive

By MARGERY MOSSMAN
Freeman staff

BOICEVILLE—Their eyes are very wide, trying to concentrate on the details of pillow-making. All but two of the seventh through 12th grade children are eager to begin. They race to pick out their favorite fabric. Three of the girls choose one long piece of brightly colored cotton fabric printed with the word "LOVE." Marge Ring, the Resource Room teacher-aide, tells them they can divide the cloth into three equal sections, and each can make a pillow. The girls look confused. They want to know how.

Mrs. Ring directs them to the black board. "37 divided by 3." Each of the three girls stands with a piece of chalk in her hand. Each advises the other that she doesn't know what she's doing. They laugh nervously. They're trying very hard. Mrs. Ring offers advice, reminds them of the rules for division. The answer is found; the cloth is cut in three pieces; the strain is gone. The girls begin to laugh and chatter like average high school girls.

The children in the Resource Room at Onteora High School are all educable mentally handicapped. Students in this program are at least two years behind grade level in reading and math, and all need a great deal of individual attention if they are to leave school with some marketable skill and a knowledge of how to make constructive use of leisure time.

Julie Shuck, special education teacher and head of the Resource Room, came to Onteora in September, 1976. Since that time, she has implemented a "hands on" program, the purpose of which is to "teach survival in society—to stimulate the will and the need to think for oneself; to translate knowledge to a particular problem for a successful solution; to evaluate that success in the wider context of one's own situation."

In other words, Mrs. Shuck hopes to help approximately 16 mentally handicapped children learn to live normal lives within their natural limitations. She wants them to leave high school with an understanding of shopping and money, of filling in job applications and insurance forms, of doing all the little, seemingly simple things everyne must do in order to survive independently.

Mrs. Shuck plans to accomplish her goal by offering a "real" education, not just a slower form of what's going on in normal classrooms throughout the school. The Resource Room actually offers pre-vocational training. Wherever possible, student projects are geared to providing services to the school community. Students type, make dittos, collate, staple and run other simple office errands for instructors and the building staff. They also operate a part-time concession in the junior high cafeteria, where they sell pretzels and italian ice. Besides providing practical experience, these "jobs" require that students improve their reading and math skills. Doing office work, a mentally handicapped child must concentrate on reading, writing and spelling, even if the effort is unconscious. Selling food means an opportunity to deal with money, and thus learn a practical and necessary application of math.

Making pillows is part of the Resource Room's "Art for Profit" program, in which students use a variety of skills to create marketable art projects. Two of their most recent projects, "god's eyes" and wooden plant hangers, were sold by vendors at the Ulster County Community College Renaissance Faire this year.

Money earned from the students' jobs goes towards field trips and other projects that the boys and girls wouldn't normally have a chance to do through the regular school program or with their families. Their most recent trip was a visit to Saugerties' McDonald's and Gem Cadillac and Oldsmobile in Kingston. The children were permitted to go behind the counter to make their own sodas at McDonald's, and they toured each department at the car dealer's.

The enthusiastic Mrs. Shuck, who lives in West Hurley and has four sons of her own, says that parents of normal high school students have expressed the wish that all students could have the "practical life" experiences offered to the special education children.

But the Resource Room is open to other students as much as possible. "We're erasing the stigma by getting involved in the school community," explains the special education teacher. "It's a big ego booster for these kids when they see other high schoolers come in to learn the crafts right along side them."

Learning together is important in Mrs. Shuck's scheme. No special education student spends more than 50 percent of his or her school time in the Resource Room. The children are mainstreamed into homeroom, English, home ec, industrial arts and physical education classes with their own grade levels. Any support they might require to keep up with their classmates is provided by Mrs. Shuck, Mrs. Ring, and four high school students who volunteer as tutors.

When Julie Shuck came to Onteora last fall, the Resource Room was already in operation, but the attitude within was very different. "It was more individually oriented, more tutorial and one-on-one," she explains. "Now we tend to group the children more. There are always steps to learning, and everybody fits in somewhere."

"We've discovered that kids learn so much from each other! Now these students are a lot more congenial, and they have learned to seek help from each other."

Friendship, too, is an important means of survival.

Julie Shuck and her students watch as teacher-aide Marge Ring demonstrates the correct way to design a pillow.

Offshore Drilling Is Coastal Concern

Berle Wants State Say in Sea Leases

ALBANY (UPI) — State Environmental Commissioner Peter Berle today asked Congress to give coastal states a greater say in oil and gas leasing programs on the Outer Continental Shelf — and $25 million to do it.

Berle said Congress should appropriate $5 million for each of five years to permit coastal states to get involved in oil drilling decisions affecting their coastlines.

In remarks prepared for testimony before a Congressional subcommittee in washington, Berle said the 25-year-old law regulating drilling on the continental shelf was "hopelessly outmoded" because it contains little provision for state and local government input.

Recalling a pollution incident on Long Island last summer which required closing beaches, Berle noted, "Recreation, tourism and fishing are multi-million dollar a year industries in our state. A major oil spill could cause even more harm that the 1976 pollution incident."

He said damages last summer had cost the recreation and tourism industries an extimated $25 million to $30 million dollars, not counting losses to commercial fishing.

The federal government has control of waters beyond a three-mile limit but Berle noted, "Because of both the environmental and economic sensitivity of our New York coastline, we believe it is absolutely essential that we participate in the leasing process before decisions are made."

Of the government's accelerated leasing program, the commissioner said, "We believe that the oil and gas industry can coexist with existing economic activity in the coastal waters of New York State."

"We also believe, however, that we have a major stake in assuring that federal agencies proceed with their responsibilities in an environmentally compatible manner," he said.

New Paltz Teen A Runner-up In Miss Teenager Pageant

CORNING, N.Y. (UPI) — Kim Cafaro, 15, New Paltz, was named a runner up Saturday night in the Miss National Teenager Pageant.

Kathleen Gray, 16, of Fonda d was selected to represent New York State in the 1978 pageant Aug. 20 in Atlanta.

Miss Gray was selected Saturday night from a field of 86 girls aged 13 to 17. Jane Ebert, 17, of Hornell, was named first runner-up. Third place went to Pat Claytor, 15, of Horseheads.

Contest sponsors said the pageant, held at the Corning Glass Works auditorium, included girls who held at least B averages in school and were active in their churches, schools and communities.

Most were selected from applications they sent to the program, officials said, and some were chosen through local contests.

All the runners-up get savings bonds, and the winner gets a trip to Hawaii and two weekend vacation trips.

Swinger Must Get Consent

NEW YORK (UPI) — The publisher of magazines carrying personal advertisements and photos of "swinging females seeking men" has agreed not to list women in the publications without their consent, according to Attorney General Louis Lefkowitz.

Lefkowitz indentified the publisher as Fred Passin, whose S.C. Enterprises of Babylon and G.G.M. Publications of West Islip publish the quarterly magazines, "Swinging Women," "Swinging Contacts," and "Girls Galore."

Lefkowitz said Sunday the magazines contain personal ads and photos of "swinging females seeking men" and do not charge fees for women placing advertisements.

He said the agreement resulted from the complaint of a woman who said she had been listed in one of the magazines without her knowledge or consent and had been subjected to "telephone inquiry and embarrassment."

Under the agreement, he said, the magazines will not publish any personal ads or photos unless they first receive a subscription form, send out a verification letter to insure that the form is correct and get back a signed copy of the verification letter.

Lefkowitz said Passin entered into the assurance of discontinuance without admitting a violation of law and paid $250 in costs to the state.

Especially Satisfied with Decisions on Spread of Nuclear Power

The Economic Summit Over, Carter Embarks upon a Hectic Schedule

LONDON (UPI) — President Carter, his first overseas diplomacy test now behind him, switched his focus today from international economics to the Middle East and Berlin.

With U.S. Secretary of State Cyrus Vance, he began a hectic schedule: Breakfast in London with French President Valery Giscard d'Estaing; then a session with Giscard, British Prime Minister James Callaghan and West German Chancellor Helmut Schmidt in a miniature summit meeting which concentrates on Berlin; an afternoon trip to Geneva, Switzerland, and a meeting there with President Hafez Assad of Syria; then a return to London.

Carter, who effortlessly captured the imagination of Britain's people outside the weekend economic summit, said: "I feel quite satisfied" about the outcome of the seven-nation meeting.

"We got acquainted with one another for the first time," Carter told reporters Sunday night at the end of a gruelling day.

"I think there is no disappointment that I feel in the final communique or decisions."

Carter expressed particular satisfaction with summit decisions on "the most divisive and the most difficult question we addressed" — that of the spread of nuclear technology to nations which could use it to make atomic weapons.

Nuclear proliferation "is going to get worse instead of better," Carter said. He said there were 12 to 15 nations "on the threshold of developing nuclear technology, and that makes it even more important to get a comprehensive agreement."

The President described his Geneva meeting with Assad as part of his administration's exploratory moves toward a U.S. position on the Middle East dispute, which has caused three wars in 30 years.

After meeting Assad and all the other Arab leaders — he also will see Prince Fahd of Saudi Arabia later this month — "we will do our own analysis of what should be done," Carter said.

"Then our country will decide whether we will take a public position" on the Middle East, Carter said.

Carter talked about the attitude he carries into Monday's four-power meeting on Berlin — the meetings occur whenever the Western Big Four leaders find themselves in the same city.

"I think the Berlin Wall is a dramatic indication of the hunger for freedom of the people who live in East Germany," he said.

"I don't know how to express any hope" that the wall splitting Berlin might come down, the President said.

"Of course, we would very much like to see the wall torn down," he said.

Carter's breakfast with Giscard was one of a series of bilateral meetings the President has held with other leaders at the summit.

As he had with Schmidt, Carter already had made an impression on the patrician French leader.

"He is an open and determined man and I like him," Giscard told French reporters. "I can get along with him."

Vance took pains Sunday night to emphasize the "pivotal role" which Syria's Assad has played in the Middle East over the past 18 months. Assad is "one of the key figures" in the area, he said.

Later this week Vance was to meet Israeli Foreign Minister Yigal Allon in London to continue the Middle East exploration which the Carter administration is conducting.

Coke Corp. Announces Expansion

BUFFALO (UPI) — The Donner-Hanna Coke Corp. has announced a multi-million dollar expansion program at its South Buffalo plant.

J.D. Crane, vice president and chief operating officer of the firm, said Saturday the expansion will increase the company's coke production. Crane said the expansion will begin in mid-summer and will be completed within a year.

The firm, which produces coke for the iron and steel industry, currently employs about 400 workers. The expansion will increase employment by an undetermined amount.

The firm is jointly owned by the Republic Steel Corp. and the Hanna Furnace Corp., a subsidiary of the National Steel Corp. of Pittsburgh.

Philly's Gorilla Dunked Rockets

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Twenty-year-old Darryl Dawkins is beginning to feel comfortable in the first NBA playoff action of his career even if he does like to imitate King Kong now and then.

The 6-11 Dawkins came off the bench Sunday for the second straight game and lifted the lethargic Philadelphia 76ers to a 106-97 victory over the Houston Rockets and a 2-0 lead in the best-of-seven Eastern Conference finals.

"I'm feeling more and more comfortable every game," said Dawkins, who came to the 76ers in 1975 fresh from Evans High School in Orlando, Fla., but didn't play in last year's playoffs.

"This isn't a cakewalk where I run in, dunk some shots and then come out," he said. "This is a pressure situation. They're a good team."

Dawkins, who sparked a third quarter rally that gave Philadelphia a victory Thursday night in the opening game of the series, was a key man in a fourth-quarter rally that enabled the 76ers to pull away from the pesky Rockets.

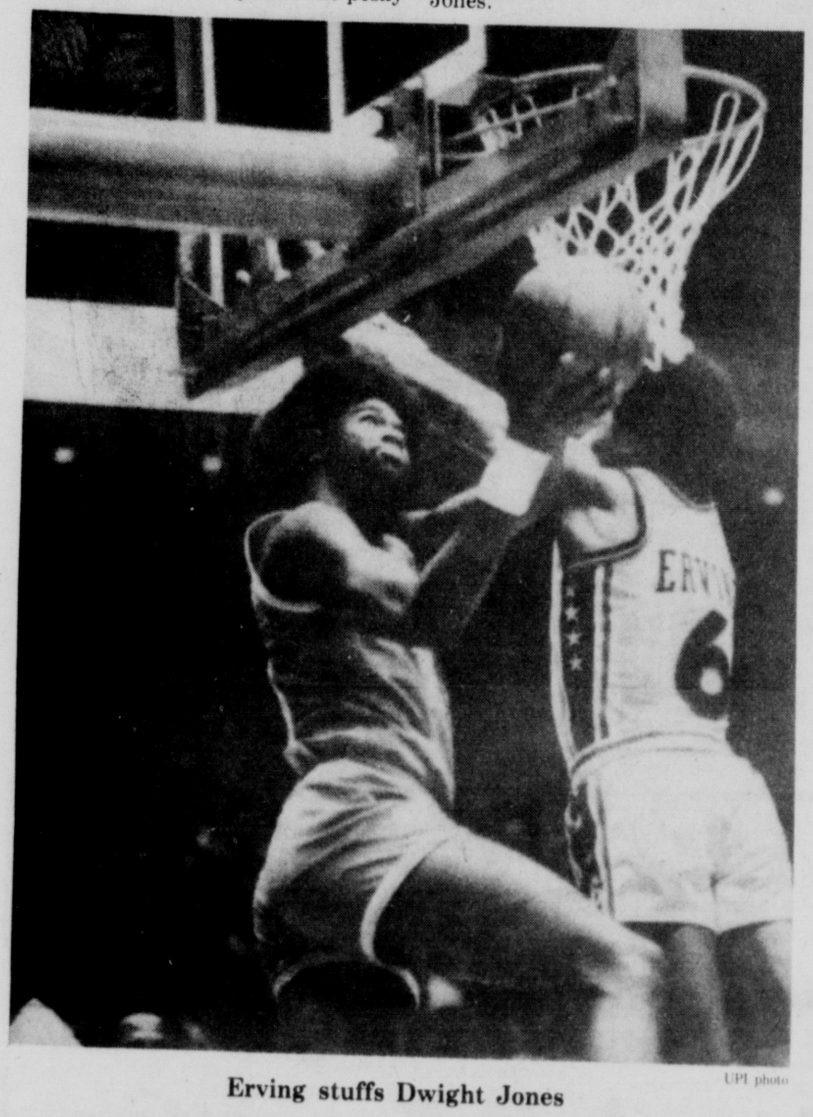

The big man had six points in the period, second to Julius Erving's 10. But if the NBA had style points for shooting a basketball, Dawkins would have easily outpointed his more famous teammate.

Dawkins hit a conventional dunk and an 18-foot jumper, but he almost brought the Spectrum roof down with a gargantuan stuff off a steal by Steve Mix with 7:26 to play. The Sixers had a 90-83 lead at that point but scored 10 of the next 12 points to move out to a 15-point lead and ice the game.

"That's my DiLaurentis gorilla slammer," the grinning Dawkins said of the shot that set off a tremendous roar from the crowd of 14,855.

"He's the guy who invented King Kong, right?," he explained, speaking of movie producer Dino DiLaurentis. "I threw it down as hard as King Kong would."

Dawkins scored 13 points in the game, adding seven rebounds, two steals and a blocked shot in 26 minutes of relief of starter Caldwell Jones.

Ulster's Tierney Gains Region XV Berth

MIDDLETOWN — Ulster County Community College's Jim Tierney won himself a ticket to the Region XV tennis tournament this weekend with a runnerup finish in the sixth flight singles championships Sunday at Orange CCC.

Tierney dropped a two-set title bout with Orange's Tom Littner, 6-2, 7-6 to finish second. Saturday, Littner was one of five victims Tierney defeated in sweeping a five-way round robin.

"I was pleased with Jim's performance," said UCCC coach Paul Donadio, "and his round robin play was beyond reproach. A combination of a slow start and several strategic errors cost him the championship match, but we'll work together all week, and by Friday he'll be ready to make a strong showing at the Region XV tournament."

Tierney was the sole Senator competitor Saturday as four other UCCC players had other committments. He didn't miss the company, though, as he stromed through the day without a setback.

Tierney defeated Ken Eato of Sullivan, 8-2, Kevin Trusdale of Dutchess, 9-1, Littner, 8-2, Kevin Nelson of Rockland, 9-1, and Ray Basli of Westchester, 8-2. Littner's defeat was his first after cruising through an undefeated regular season.

Tierney's overall season record was 7-5. "I'm sure it would have been even better except that Jim had knee surgery six weeks before the season started," noted Donadio. "It's amazing that he's even playing this soon."

Crenshaw Hit Two Too Many Bad Shots

DALLAS (UPI) — Raymond Floyd is hitting the golf ball quite well these days and Ben Crenshaw is not. Those were the reasons Floyd won the Byron Nelson Golf Classic Sunday. But it certainly took a while for the issue to be decided.

"Overall, when you get right down and look at it," said Crenshaw, "I'm lucky to finish second. I think I played better golf when I was 15 years old."

And, from the winner:

"I just kept telling myself to keep hitting good shots and that if I did, I would be rewarded."

Floyd kept hitting good shots through the final holes and, as Crenshaw put it, "I just hit two bad shots too many."

The result was a two-shot victory for Floyd over Crenshaw, his first of the year and ninth of his 14-year tour career. It was a win that qualified Floyd for the World Series of Golf, all but clinched a spot on the Ryder Cup team and brought him within $45,000 of the $1 million mark in tour earnings.

Floyd overcame the hottest day of the year in Texas — temperatures reached the mid 90s over the Preston Trail Golf Club course — to fire a twounder 69 Sunday for a 72-hole total of eight-under 276 that was worth $40,000. Crenshaw managed a 71-278 for $22,800.

Andy Bean, who shot 65-67 the last two days, tied Lyn Lott for third at five-under 279 and each earned $11,800 while Don January was alone at 280 and won $8,200.

As bad as Crenshaw was playing, finding exotic spots on the course with a weird assortment of tee shots, the day almost belonged to the 25-year-old Texan who had the gallery cheering his every spectacular recovery.

Crenshaw fell three shots behind early in the day but gathered himself to move in front at the turn. And when he rolled in a 20-foot eagle putt at the par-five 15th he assumed a three-shot advantage.

"I heard the roar of the crowd while I was standing on the 15th tee," Floyd said. "I knew Ben had made an eagle. That's when I pschycologically kicked myself in the rear. I could have quit but I told myself that if I just kept hitting good shots something good might happen."

And it did.

Floyd reached the 15th green in two and made a 35-foot putt for a three of his own which cut the deficit to one shot. Moments later Crenshaw hit the first of those "two too many" bad shots which sailed over the 17th green and resulted in a bogey.

Big Men's Stats Were Deceiving

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — In the battle of goliaths, Kareem Abdul-Jabbar outscored Bill Walton 40-14 but the Portland Trail Blazers proved statistics can be deceiving and thrust themselves in position to sweep the Los Angeles Lakers.

"The biggest worry I have now," said a smiling Jack Ramsay after his Trail Blazers nipped the Lakers 99-97 Sunday, "is getting through the crowd at the Portland airport."

With a surprising 2-0 lead in the best-of-seven Western Conference finals accomplished on a court where the Lakers had lost only four previous games this season, the Trail Blazers host the next two games of the series Tuesday and Friday nights.

Since Los Angeles didn't win a game on the road in its quarter-final playoff series with Golden State, Portland could easily clinch the series without having to return here next Sunday.

Naturally, Walton did not agree. After all, he has to face Abdul-Jabbar, who has 70 points in the first two games.

"This series is far from over," cautioned Walton. "We have to play better the next time."

"When I was a player," Lakers coach Jerry West said, "we lost the first two against Golden State at home once and then won the next four in a row. But that team had a lot more talent than this one does.

"I think we will play better but I don't know if we'll be able to come back. I know one thing — we can't get the job done by scoring this many points."

Instead of winning with Walton and Maurice Lucas, Portland's 6-9 power forward, the Trail Blazers relied Sunday on the backcourt combination of Lionel Hollins and Herm Gilliam.

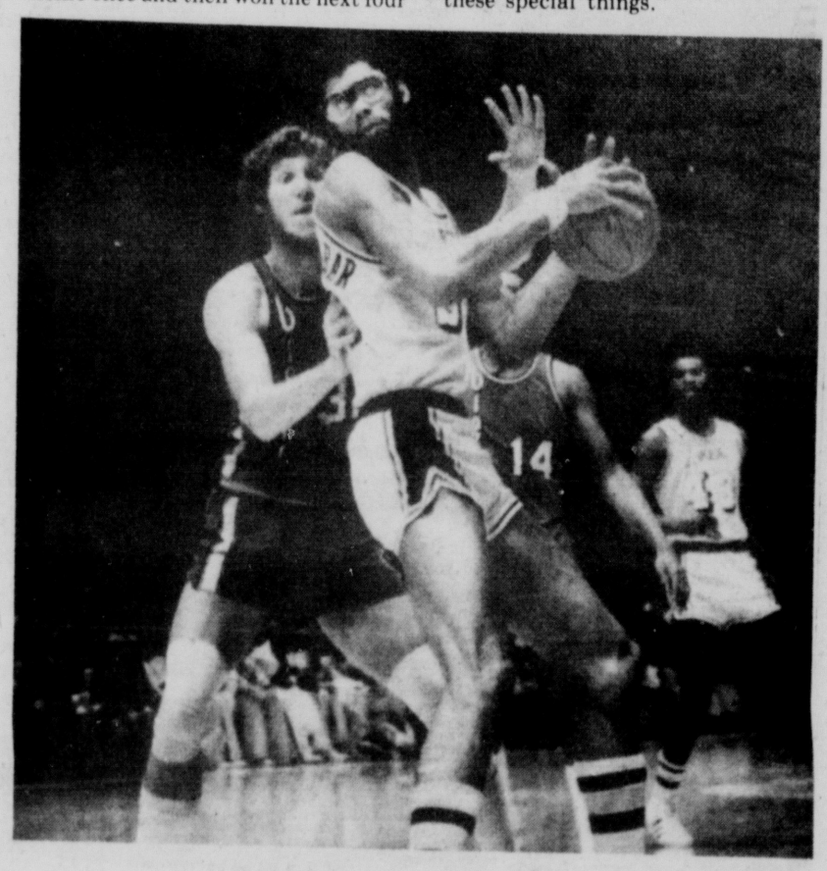

Hollins fired in 31 points, 22 in the first half, and Gilliam came off the bench to get 24, 14 in the final quarter when Portland overcame a seven-point deficit.

Gilliam's scoop shot with 1:03 remaining put Portland ahead to stay at 98-97 and Hollins added a free throw with 11 seconds left. Abdul-Jabbar missed a shot with five seconds left that would have tied the game.

A seven-year veteran who is playing with his fourth NBA club, Gilliam hit five baskets in the final 5:39 as Portland outscored the Lakers 15-6.

"We call Gilliam the 'Trickster,'" Ramsay said, "and he threw in some trick shots today.

"He stays on the bench for several games and then comes off and does a great job. To win these types of games, you have to have somebody do these special things."

Former Indians Are Flourishing

By UPI

While the Cleveland Indians languish in last place, some of their former employees are flourishing with contenders in Chicago and New York.

The Indians, in hopes of mounting their first serious pennant challenge since the early 1960s, invested heavily in free agent pitcher Wayne Garland during the off-season and were among baseball's busiest traders at the annual winter meetings. They might have fared better by never unloading folks like Oscar Gamble, Graig Nettles and Chris Chambliss in recent years.

Gamble, hitting at a .545 clip in his last nine games, belted a two-run homer Sunday to spark the Chicago White Sox to their fifth road victory in seven games, an 8-3 decision over the slumping Indians who are last in the American League East with an 8-16 record.

Meanwhile, Nettles, the defending AL homer champion, capped a five-run first inning with his fifth of the season to help the New York Yankees to their 13th win in the last 15 games, a 10-5 decision over the Oakland A's. Chambliss had three hits in the game for the Yankees to lift his season's average to .300, which also includes 20 RBI.

"I'm getting good pitches to hit and everybody here is swinging the bat well," said Gamble, who was first traded in 1975 by the Indians to the Yankees for pitcher Pat Dobson before moving to the White Sox last month. "I wasn't happy to leave New York, but I wanted a chance to play.

"I'm letting my hair grow again and maybe the longer it gets, the more power I'll get."

Gamble's homer, his fourth of the season, gave the White Sox a 3-1 lead in the third inning. Chet Lemon also had five hits for the Chisox who have averaged nearly six runs per game on their current road trip. Steve Stone, an off-seasn free agent pickup who grew up on the Cleveland sandlots, spaced nine hits over the distance to gain the victory.

"Our pitchers are realizing now they don't have to pitch a shutout every time out to win," said White Sox manager Bob Lemon, himself a former Indian pitching great who was never given a job in the Cleveland organization after his active career ended in 1958.

Lemon has reason to be pleased, however. He has the White Sox, a team picked in pre-season to be among the worst in baseball, playing .615 ball—one game out of first place in the AL West.

"Our hitting has been good and our defense is improved," added Lemon. "We feel if we can score three runs, we can win any game."

Yankees 10, Athletics 5

Nettles, acquired by the Yankees from Cleveland in a six-player deal five years ago, stroked a three-run homer in the first inning to climax a fiverun rout of ex-Yankee Dock Ellis, who has now given up 18 earned runs in 7 1-3 innings since joining Oakland. Thurman Munson was 4-for-5 for the Yankees with four runs scored, while Chambliss, obtained from the Indians in another sixplayer swap three years ago, was 3-for-5 and has added 44 points to his average in the last three games.

Twins 5, Blue Jays 4

Rod Carew was 4-for-5 including a pair of triples, while Butch Wynegar doubled home a pair of runs in the third inning as the Twins maintained their one-game lead over Chicago in the AL West. Dave Goltz went 7 2-3 innings for his first win of the season.

Brewers 7, Tigers 4

Dan Thomas hiit a two-run homer and Robin Yount drove in three runs, helping the Brewers to snap a four-game losing streak. Rookie Moose Haas yielded six hits over six innings to gain the win.

Red Sox 4, Angels 3

Dwight Evans' sixth homer of the year snapped a 3-3 tie in the sixth inning, and Jim Willoughby preserved the victory by hurling 4 1-3 innings of shutout relief. Evans' homer, a solo shot, came with two out in the sixth off Angels' starter and loser Gary Ross.

Rangers 5, Royals 2

Veteran Willie Horton slammed a pair of two-run homers to pace the Texas victory. Bert Blyleven hurled 8 1-3 innings of six-hit ball to gain the win before Darold Knowles came on to get Amos Otis on a game-ending double play in the ninth.

Orioles 6, Mariners 4

Pat Kelly belted a first inning grand slam, his fifth homer in the last six games, and rookie Eddie Murray stroked his sixth homer of the year in the third to chase loser Dick Pole. Jim Palmer struggled to his fifth win in six decisions, scattering 11 hits in eight innings.

Parker (.422) NL's Newest Star

By UPI

It'll come as news to the Pittsburgh Pirates' National League rivals that Dave Parker rates himself "a .300-hitter" because right now he's hitting .422 and looks like baseball's newest superstar.

Parker approached the superstar class last season with a .313-13-90 performance in batting average, homers and RBI. This year he has taken over as the Pirates' No. 1 slugger. He has hit five homers, driven in 28 runs and also contributed five stolen bases worth of speed to the Pirates' attack.

At 6-feet, 5-inches and 230 pounds, Parker is an imposing specimen but he takes that in stride. His physique has always been impressive — 11 pounds, 14 ounces at birth and big enough at four years of age for a truant officer to ask his parents why he wasn't attending school.

Parker doubled home two runs and also had a single Sunday when the Pirates defeated the Cincinnati Reds 6-4, swept the three-game series with the two-time world champions, scored their 13th victory in 14 games and maintained their one and a half game lead in the National League's Eastern Division.

"I'll cool off eventually," Parker conceded after the game. "But I'm sure I'll hit .300. I knew that before the season. I consider myself a .300-hitter."

Rich Gossage, acquired from the Chicago White Sox during the winter, pitched two scoreless innings and picked up his second save of the three-game series and fourth of the season. He, Jerry Reuss and Odell Jones combined to end Pete Rose's hitting streak at 20 games as the Cincinnati star went 0-for-4.

"They're tough," said Gossage about the Reds. "They've got a better lineup than other teams I've seen in the league, although I haven't seen them all yet."

Parker's two-run double capped a three-run seventh inniing which brought the Pirates from behind and gave Jones his first win. Bill Robinson and Phil Garner homered for the Pirates while Johnny Bench connected for the Reds.

Fred Norman was the loser for the Reds, who have lost 15 of their 25 games and are 11 games behind the Los Angeles Dodgers in the Western Division.

The Chicago Cubs defeated the Atlanta Braves 6-3, the St. Louis Cardinals edged the Houston Astros 2-1 and the San Francisco Giants scored 4-2 and 10-0 victories over the New York Mets. Philadelphia at Los Angeles and Montreal at San Diego were rained out.

Cubs 6, Braves 3

Bobby Murcer's two-run triple was the big blow of a four-run third inning which enabled the Cubs to hand the Braves their 14th straight loss. Singles by Ivan DeJesus, Jose Cardenal and Larry Biittner accounted for the Cubs' first run and Murcer followed with his triple. Bill Bonham went 6 2-3 innings for his third victory while Max Leon was the loser.

Cards 2, Astros 1

Bake McBride knocked in the tying run and scored the winner on Keith Hernandez' single in the third inning as the Cardinals dealt Mark Lemongello his fourth straight loss. The Cardinals also pulled off their first triple play in 21 years. The play started in the third inning when Willie Crawford lined to second baseman Mike Tyson. Tyson tossed to shortstop Don Kessinger for the second out and Kessinger threw to Hernandez for the third out.

Giants 4-10, Mets 2-0

Jim Barr won his fifth game with ninth-inning relief help from Gary Lavelle and Randy Moffit in the opener at San Francisco. John Curtis pitched a two-hitter in a nightcap shortened to 6½ innings by rain. Tim Foli and Rob Andrews had three hits each in the second game as the Giants handed Jon Matlack his fourth setback in five decisions.

Vijay Came Through

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Vijay Amritraj was playing for the biggest purse of his life Sunday and he responded with his best tennis.

Amritraj unleashed a devastating service in teaming with Dick Stockton to win the WCT-World Doubles Championship and its accompanying $80,000 first place purse with a 7-6, 7-6, 4-6, 6-3 victory over Adriano Panatta and Vitas Gerulaitis.

Amritraj collected 13 of a possible 15 service points in the first set and, after being broken once in both the second and third sets, picked up all 12 service points in the final set as he and Stockton won their first doubles tournament ever.

"I thought Vijay played super tennis, the best I've ever seen him play," Stockton said.

"Vijay just played better than I ever thought he could," added Gerulaitis. "We knew Stockton would be tough but I couldn't believe some of the shots Vijay hit."

Stockton and Amritraj became partners at the start of the WCT season but reached just two finals in seven tournaments. They defeated Ken Rosewall and Ray Moore in the first round and Eddie Dibbs and Corrado Barazzutti Friday night to advance to the finals.

"Besides the money, excitement wise and tournament wise, this is my biggest win ever," Amritraj said. "It's a great thing for me and for India. I'm going home to India tomorrow and I'll be surprised if there isn't a big reception at the airport. This championship will mean a lot to the people at home."

Amritraj and Stockton captured the first set tie-breaker 7-1, denying Panatta and Gerulaitis all four of their service points, and won the second set tie-breaker 7-3 with Amritraj serving up three winners.

"We played our best tennis in the tie-breakers, which is unusual for us," Stockton said. "We had a poor record during the year in the tie-breakers but we got ahead in them early today and that put the pressure on them. They made the errors."

CANINE CORNER

Stacy Finally Got Her Win

ATLANTA (UPI) — Lady Tara champion Hollis Stacy had resigned herself to finishing second again.

Runnerup six times but never a winner, prior to Sunday, in her three years on the ladies professional golf tour, the 23-year-old Georgian waited at the final green for JoAnne Carner to complete her round, convinced the then defending champion was going to edge her by a stroke.

Stacy, trailing Carner by three strokes going into the closing nine holes, had laid down a birdie barrage to go 10-under for the tournament and ''e Carner for the lead.

"I didn't think that was going to be good enough," said Stacy, who had a 3-under-par 70 Sunday and a 209 total. "I honestly expected JoAnne to birdie No. 17 (a par 5). The best I was hoping for at that point was a playoff."

Instead, Carner drove into the woods, came out into a bunker, and misplayed the bunker shot. When she finally holed out, it was for a bogey 6. She had a 15-foot birdie putt at the final hole which could have forced a playoff, but it rolled a foot wide, leaving her with a 71- -210.

"I didn't spoil my record," said Carner, who has won 16 events in her eight years as a pro and numerous others during 20 years as an amateur, but never successfully defended a title during that 28-year career.

"I'll just take my $5,000 and go.

"I thought I had things under control when I went 10-under with a birdie at 16," said Carner. "But, then someone told me that Hollis had just run off three straight birdies and was right there with me. I wasn't surprised. I know Hollis. When she gets hot, she's likely to tear it up."

Carner said, and Stacy agreed, the big reason Stacy hadn't been a winner sooner was because she had been playing too cautiously. "She was a free wheeler as an amateur, but she changed her game when she first came out on the tour. Now, she's changed back like she used to and you're going to hear a lot about her."

"I haven't meant to play conservative," said Stacy, who moved into seventh place on this year's LPGA money list, at $28,353, with the $7,500 she won Sunday. "The pro tour does that to you. You find yourself unwilling to take chances for fear you'll have a really bad hole. I play my best golf when I free wheel it.

"I got mad at myself on the ninth tee," said Stacy. "I knew that back nine owed me a lot of shots."

She got them, sinking five birdie putts. "I had been getting a bit psyched by all those second place finishes," said Stacy. "It wasn't that I didn't want to win."

Sandra Post was third at 212 and Pat Bradley, who was tied with Carner for the lead with nine holes to play, wound up tied for fourth with Kathy Postlewait, at 213.

Four of this year's top six money winners did not play in the $50,000 Lady Tara. Kathy Whitworth (1), Judy Rankin (3) and Sally Little (6) skipped the tournament and Jane Blalock (5) was forced to withdraw at the last minute because of a back injury. Carner, who has won $42,194 this year, held on to her No. 4 spot. Second-ranked Sandra Palmer ($47,704) got only $348 for her 6-over-par 225.

Three for Preakness

BALTIMORE (UPI) — As of Monday only three horses that ran in the Kentucky Derby can be counted on as definite starters in the Preakness Stakes.

Kentucky Derby winner Seattle Slew will definitely be running at Pimlico May 21. Bill Turner, the horse's trainer, said Sunday before leaving Louisville for New York that the colt will be shipped from his home base at Belmont Park to Pimlico sometime this week.

Sanhedrin, which ran third Saturday, will also be arriving in Maryland within the next few days, according to trainer Lou Rondinello. Rondinello said he believes the Pimlico racing surface will be more favorable to Sanhedrin's style of running.

Leo Azpurua, trainer of Sir Sir, which finished 12th in the Derby, said the colt will take part in the 102nd running of the Preakness.

Pimlico officials said Monday there will be a probable field of eight starters — Seattle Slew, Sanhedrin, Sir Sir, Run Dusty Run, For The Moment, Affiliate, J.O. Tobin and Cormorant. They said they expected to hear from the trainers of the other horses in the next few days.

Both British champion J.O. Tobin and Cormorant, the 3year-old colt that is undefeated this year, bypassed the Derby and are training in Maryland now as they prepare to take on Seattle Slew.

Mario Led Prix All the Way

MADRID (UPI) — American Mario Andretti stormed off the line to take the lead from start to finish in the Spanish grand prix and capture his second consecutive victory.

The win Sunday advanced Andretti from fourth to second in the world drivers' championship and he said afterward, "I did not even drive as hard as I could have."

Argentina's Carlos Reutemann in a Ferrari finished in the number two position, 16 seconds behind Andretti. Reutemann took over second place in the 12th lap and in the remaining 63 laps failed to make a dent in the American's lead.

Andretti also won the May 3 U.S. grand prix west. Asked how it felt to win a second straight grand prix, the veteran driver replied "Like making love—always like the first time. Winning is always sweet."

It was his fourth grand prix victory and first in Europe.

But the 1969 Indianapolis 500 champion said he was disappointed that one of his toughest rivals, Austrian Niki Lauda of the Ferrari team, had to withdraw from the race after bruising a rib in practice laps.

"That's not the way I like to eliminate a competitor," said Andretti, who was born in Trieste, Italy, and now lives in Nazareth, Pa.

But Lauda's withdrawal provided a break for another American driver, 31-year-old Brett Lunger of Wilmington, Del., who was driving a March.

Lunger had not qualified for the 24-car field but was the No. 1 alternate. Lauda's painful injury gave Lunger a slot in the race and he took advantage of it to place 10th, his highest grand prix finish since moving into the category in late 1975.

Swedish Lightning Struck Twice

VIENNA (UPI) — Lightning can strike in the same place twice. Sweden proved it Sunday by defeating the Soviet Union for the second time to hand Czechoslovakia the World Ice Hockey Championship title and rob Team Canada of the bronze medal.

The improving Canadians spanked the title-holders 8-2, but Czechoslovakia went on to keep the crown thanks to Sweden's 3-1 triumph over the Russians. It was that sort of championship.

Team Canada won two of its three playoff matches — slamming Sweden 7-0 for its other success — but finished out of the medal honors in fourth place. The Swedes, on the strength of their two triumphs over the Soviet Union and a first round win against Team Canada, took the silver ahead of the Soviets, who had to settle for bronze when the title looked theirs for the taking.

The out-in-the-cold Canadians could consider themselves unlucky to miss out on the medal stakes, but until they learn to handle the Russians the world title is beyond them.

Two humiliating defeats — 11-1 and 8-1 — showed that Canada's National Hockey League stars can't beat the Russians by intimidation and rough-house tactics will get them nowhere.

The Canadians proved against Czechoslovakia Sunday they had learned some lessons from Friday's debacle when their players totted up 30 minutes in penalties in the Russia match.

There was less emphasis on brutal checking and as a result, the Canadians produced their best hockey of the tournament. The only sour note came when Phil Esposito threw a punch at Czechoslovak coach Ion Ionescu on the bench, but otherwise Team Canada managed to restore some self respect.

The decision to throw open the championships to the pros for the first time did not alter the traditional run of events. The Canadians could only finish fourth and the U.S. sixth.

One pro did emerge as a standout on the final day. But he happened to be a Swede and his sparkling performance won the gold medal for Czechoslovakia. It was Minnesota North Stars forward Roland Eriksson who stopped the Russians from winning the title by scoring all three goals against the Soviet Union.

Both the Canadians and the U.S. want to compete again, despite the criticism respective managers Johnny Wilson and John Mariucci leveled at the referees for their pro-European handling of matches. No doubt, they will be better prepared next year in Prague.

Congressman Aiding His Wouldbe Assassin

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — A Florida congressman said Sunday night he had been trying unsuccessfully to find a government job for an attorney who is accused of attempting to kill him.

Roger Aldworth Beach, 34, of nearby Singer Island, was being held today on state and federal charges for allegedly trying to kill Rep. Paul Rogers, D-Fla.

The tearful Beach, who underwent an involuntary psychological examination by court order last month, pleaded innocent at bond hearings Sunday in both the state and federal cases.

He was held under a combined total bond of $350,000.

Rogers told a news conference shortly before returning to Washington that Beach sought his aid earlier this year in obtaining federal employment and said he had asked 15 government agencies about jobs for him. "I was still in the process of checking things out," he said.

Rogers said, however, he doubted the unsuccessful hunt for a job for Beach was the motive for the alleged assassination attempt. Asked what might have been the motive, Rogers replied, "I don't think I should comment on the man right now since it is in the court system."

The congressman said he felt secure with Beach in custody and has not asked for police protection.

"It was a sad event but these things happen," Rogers said.

Court records revealed that Circuit Judge James Knott ordered psychological evaluation of Beach last month when fellow attorneys complained Beach was a threat to the safety of himself and others.

Beach was arrested Saturday at the federal building when he arrived for a 6:30 p.m. appointment with Rogers. Deputy Sheriff Sergio Rodriguez, posing as Rogers' administrative assistant, said Beach had a loaded .38-caliber revolver in his briefcase.

Teacher Strikes Dwindle

By UPI

Teachers' strikes in Cincinnati, Kansas City, Mo., and Milwaukee were winding down today with tentative contract approval in two cities and a vote to obey a judge's order in the third.

In Cincinnati, members of the Federation of Teachers were to vote tonight on the latest wage offer from the city School Board which they tentatively accepted at a meeting Sunday night.

About 40 per cent of the school system's 2,950 teachers, who have been on strike since April 13, remained away from classes today but discontinued picketing pending outcome of the ratification meeting.

The new contract was not disclosed, but the offer apparently was a bit higher than the last offer of a 6 per cent immediate pay increase plus a 3 per cent raise if a June 14 tax levy passes.

In Milwaukee, 5,600 members of the Teachers' Education Association tentatively approved a contract today.

Union officials said the teachers would return to work as soon as tentative contracts are written for the MTEA's three other bargaining units. They told teachers not to report for work today.

Schools were open, as they had been during the previous 16 school days of the strike. The strike began April 7.

The tentative contract includes the same class size provisions as the contract which expired Jan. 1. Teachers would get a 4 per cent pay raise this year, retroactive to Jan. 1, 4.5 per cent in 1978 and 5 per cent in 1979.

In Kansas City, the seven-week-long teachers' strike started with one court order and ended with another.

The Federation of Teachers disregarded Circuit Judge Lewis Clymer's first order forbidding the strike, and subsequently some teachers were fined and a handful went to jail for contempt.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

By Jeane Dixon

TUESDAY, MAY 10

Your birthday today: Expect a prolonged spell of testing. Nothing runs quite to crisis, yet nothing is within your power to resolve finally. Repeated minor improvisations or adjustments are necessary, mostly temporary. Relationships are stressed: new ties are difficult to cultivate, old ones are quiet but extremely helpful in getting you past the frustrations indicated throughout this year. Today's natives are sensitive to rhythms, include dancers, composers, poets.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: For no plausible reason, most ventures don't get off the ground; others go off course, require correction. Find out cost of operations, ways to lower them.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: Slow down the tempo. Take inventory of changes and their results. Looking up old records brings new perspective, little guidance on how to proceed as yet.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: Keep hands off a bit longer. Problems abate as people eventually move. Misunderstandings, harsh words hurt your best interests. Spare others your complaints.

Cancer [June 21-July 22]: A quiet day isn't a green light for you to barge blithely ahead. Don't begin major enterprises, repairs, or add new sidelines. Cultivate family amenities.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: Live and let live is easier said than done, but your only approach. Pleasures are superficial yet preferable to the confusion that comes from forcing issues.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: Judgments of relative merits are hard to make, still harder to express in terms others will accept. Put options into action rather than into explanations.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: Survey of your establishment reveals need for preventative maintenance, safety measures. Evening brings surprises; secrets slip out into general view.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: Reduce your outflow of energy. You're asked to do more than your share, carry another's work. See that it's official, temporary, pays well. Don't cut corners.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: Wait for more information before you overreact to flaws in current plans. Farming out chores opens the door to stranger troubles than you already face.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: Abnormally slack activity is normal under present influences. Curtail whatever attracts attention. Tighten up technical details, smooth over rough parts.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: Impulse provokes difficult-to-rationalize decisions. A special sales pitch is offered; third party mediations aids a sound deal, blocks a sour one.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: Apparent trivia have deeper meanings, must be taken in stride, no extra time allotted to the mystery. You create a misleading impression; be more explicit.

By JEAN ADAMS, Ph.D.

JEALOUSY: (Q.) I have this friend Lyn. I love her very much, and she claims I'm her best friend and she loves me too.

But when she gets with her boy friend, or her boy friend's brother, or anyone else who is male, I don't even exist.

It's tearing me apart inside. She hurts me and doesn't know it. We are both 17. Can you give me some advice on what I should do? — Torn Apart in Pennsylvania

(A.) Lyn may not be very considerate about your feelings. She no doubt could be kinder and more thoughtful.

But you must realize that to most 17-year-old girls males are very important.

Maybe they should be more important to you. If you had your thoughts on a boy you might not be so torn up when Lyn forsakes you for one.

What is happening to her is nature at work. It is the right thing. She may may make mistakes, but she is on the right road.

Try to learn from her. You can, if you will let yourself. And in doing so you can ease your jealousy.

ONCE: Jack meets Jill at a party. They have a lot in common. Jack asks Jill out for dinner. They both enjoy themselves. They say goodnight and Jill never gets a call from Jack again.

Question: Why, if they both have a good time and like each other, doesn't Jack ever call Jill? Jill sees him once in a while and they talk briefly, but he never calls or asks her out. — Jill in Massachusetts

(A.) Jill had a good time. She is the only one you can be sure about. Jack may not have had a good time, although he seemed to. Or he may have had a good time but felt no strong urge to repeat it.

It is possible to have a good time, but not be moved as a result of it to start something permanent.

Please do not feel that Jack "owes you something." If you do, your tone and manner when you see him may drive him away. Just be friendly and open with him. If you are, he may take a notion to call you again.

SECRET OF SUCCESS IS GOOD DEFENSE

I went to Tel Aviv a few weeks ago to find out why a country with fewer than four million people consistently finishes among the leaders in the world championships of bridge. As in so many other sports, the secret of success is good defense.

Opening lead — ♣ A

Schmuel Lev, a member of Israel's national bridge team, led the ace of clubs from the West hand. South ruffed and led the king of spades.

What should West do after taking the ace of spades?

West should apologize to his partner, because he has just given declarer the contract by taking the ace of spades too soon. If West leads another club, for example, South ruffs and leads his last trump. After drawing trumps South runs the diamonds, winning 11 tricks.

Lev avoided his embarrassing fate by refusing to win the first round of trumps.

CONTINUES TRUMPS

South continued with another trump, and Lev took the ace. A club continuation forced South to ruff with his last trump.

Now declarer couldn't get to dummy to draw the last missing trump. When South led diamonds, for lack of anything better to do, West ruffed the fourth diamond. Dummy overruffed, but the South hand was now dead. The defenders could win a club trick as well as two hearts and the ace of trumps.

DAILY QUESTION

Dealer, at your left, bids one diamond, and the next two players pass. You hold: ♠54 ♡K97 ◇75 ♣KJ8754. What do you say?

ANSWER: At rubber bridge, pass. You are willing to let declarer score 20 points below the line since a part score of that size is less useful than a part score of 40 to 60 points. At tournament bridge, you might choose to reopen the auction by bidding two clubs, but you might be sorry you hadn't passed.

Sentence Can Range from Probation to Life

Patty May Face Prison Second Time

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Newspaper heiress Patricia Hearst faces a possible prison term for the second time for her activities as a member of the "underground" Symbionese Liberation Army.

Miss Hearst, 23, was to be sentenced today for one count of robbery and one of assault with a deadly weapon, stemming from a 1974 incident at a sporting goods store in which she sprayed the store front with machinegun fire.

She is free on $1.2 million bail pending an appeal of her conviction in federal court in San Francisco for bank robbery. She has been sentencee to seven years for that offence.

She pleaded "nolo contendere" to the two charges. The Latin term for "no contest" is tantamount to a plea of guilty but exempts her from civil suits, which might have arisen from the incident.

Judge E. Talbot Callister of the Superior Court could sentence her to straight probation or to life in prison. Under the state's current law, she could receive 15½ years to life.

But under a new law, to go into effect July 1, she could receive as little as six years with two years off for good behavior. It was not immediately determined which of the laws would govern the sentencing.

Judge Callister, at the time she entered the "no contest" plea, said he was finding her guilty of both counts and further found her guilty of using firearms in both crimes. Use of a firearm could add to any sentence under the current or the new legislation.

The surprise plea was entered April 18 in a courtroom hearing which was to have been one of several prior to a schduled May 18 trial.

Her attorney, Albert Johnson, gave no reason at the time for the plea. Prosecutor Samuel Mayerson said no deal was made with Miss Hearst or her attorneys in reurn for the plea and no recommendaion for leniency would be made to the court.

But nine other counts stemming from the incident at Mel's Sporting Goods in Inglewood were dropped by the prosecution. They included five of assault, two of robbery and two of kidnaping.

Miss Hearst peppered the front of the store with automatic gunfire to permit her SLA companions, William and Emily Harris, to escape. The three then commandeered several cars and held two of their owners prisoner. One complained also of being robbed of money he carried.

The Harrises were tried separately on thes same 11 counts in the original indictment against Miss Hearst. They were found guilty and sentenced to 11 years to life.

The first five-year home improvement loan with a one-year interest rate.

Most banks will offer you reasonable interest rates for short-term home improvement loans. But when you ask for a long-term loan, watch your rates soar.

Not so at Bankers Trust. We've come up with a new plan: one low interest rate for all home improvement loans, whether one year or five. So you can stretch your repayments out over a longer period, making each one smaller, without paying the penalty of higher rates.

Only 9.95% at Bankers Trust.

Say you borrow $3,500 for a five-year period, your 60 monthly repayments will be only $74.27, based on our new Annual Percentage Rate of only 9.95%. Total cost: $4,456.20.

Come in and tell us how much you want to borrow, and we'll tell you how little you'll repay each month.
